Russia

A ranking White House official said Mr. Reagan "was beginning to think about his legacy." The official added, "He wants to meet Gorbachev at a mutually agreed-on date; he wants to work out an accommodation on arms control."

Earlier, the White House said mr. Reagan would welcome a meeting with the new Soviet leader if it benefited "the cause of world peace."

At the same time, the White House spokesman, Larry Speakes, said mr. Reagan "welcomed the tone" of Mr. Gorbachev's acceptance speech on being named party chief to replace Mr. Chernenko.

WWe're pleased he expressed a readiness, as he put it, to participate in a continuation of the process of establishing peaceful, mutually beneficial cooperation," Mr. Speakes said.

World Leaders Gather At Chernenko Funeral.

Vice President Bush offering condolences to Mr. Chernenko's family.

Leaders from around the world gathered in Moscow to pay their repects at the bier of Konstantin U. Chernenko, who is to be buried beside the Kremlin wall on Wednesday.

As mournful music played, the new Soviet leader, Mikhail s. Gorbachev, led his Politburo colleagues in honoring Mr. Chernenko, who died Sunday at the age of 73. Thousands of Muscovities in heavy winter coats shuffled through the House of Unions to pay their last respects to Mr. Chernenko.

Vice President Bush arrived here with Secretary of State George P. Shultz, bearing what he said was "a message of peace" from President Reagan. "We have no greater hope and no greater goal than to create a more stable and constructive relationship with the Soviet Union," he said.

Two special Cadilac limousines arrived with him, and joined the streams of black official cars ushering Soviet officials and their high-ranking guests through the streets of Moscow.

Mr. Bush and the other visitors, including the leaders of Britain, France, West Germany, Japan, India, Pkistan and Italy, as well as of Soviet allies and other nations, are due to assemble at 1 PM. Wednesday in Red Square for the funeral.

The third burial of a Soviet leader in 28 months is to follow the pattern of those that preceded it, with the coffin moving slowly across the cobbled square on a red-and-black draped gun carriage accompanied by a slow-steping honor guard with fixed bayonets.

As the coffin is lowered into the ground behind Lenin's tomb salvoes are to be fired in Moscow and 32 other citie, along with a three-minute whistle salute by factories, ships and trains.

Pravda broke with tradition this morning, however, in printing a large phtograph of Mr. Gorbachev on its front page, in place of a portrait and black-bordered obituary of the leader who had just died.

The High Cost Of Malpractice Medical Insurance.

Backed by the Washington State Insurance Commission, current legislation in the State House and Senate seeks to finally expose the "culprit" behind the present controversy concerning the high cost of medical malpractice insurance.

Physicians say the situation is caused by the large number of medical nelgigence awards made by juries to the victims of medical negligence and blame the attorneys for bringing the suits. The attorneys say that physicians should be accountable for their negligence and, further, that insurance companies are making money and still overcharging the doctors for premiums.

And the insurance companies are fighting the proposed legislation which would make it mandatory for insurers to file more comprehensive reports with the State Insurance Commission to better determine profit and loss in the malpractice areas.

David Rogers, deputy insurance commissioner for the state, says his office supports the legislative measures. "The insurance companies are always claiming there is a crisis out there. Let's find out."

Paul Stritmatter, president of the Washington State Trial Lawyers Association, says his group welcomes the prospect of getting the insurance companies' closely-guarded figures out into the open.

Kim Putnam, Washington State Trial Lawyers' legislative counsel, points to figures that show the top 75 malpractice insurance carriers in the nation earned $7.3 billion in premiums from 1978 to 1983, but paid out only $1.5 billion in claims over the same period.

NAACP Board Takes Stand Against Apartheid.

The NAACP National Board of Directors at its meeting on Feb. 16 at the New York Hilton Hotel, approved a policy position opposing activity between the South African government and American corporations. The following is the text of the approved policy:

"1. That the NAACP OPPOSE CORPORATE ACTIVITY BETWEEN THE South African public sector (government) and U.S. corporations.

"2. That the NAACP ENCOURAGE SIGNATORY COMPANIES OF THE Sullivan Principles to enter into "Fair Share" type relationships with non-white organizations in South Africa.

'3. That the NAACP encourage signatory companies of the Sullivan Principles to use the facilities of black institutions such as the African Bank.

"4. That the NAACP seek funding for an economic fact-finding study tour of South Africa.

"5. That the NAACP OPPOSE U.S. public sector investment in corporations doing business with the South African government.

"6. That the NAACP endorse the Sullivan Principles as a minimum standard for corporations doing business in South Africa that the NAACP encourage signatories of the Sulivan Principles to sign Fair Share agreements.

"7. That the Small Business Administration be maintained as an independent agency and that those programs impacting on minority business development be expanded."

Bill Rowe, UNCF Development Director, Says Thank You.

As Area Development Directcr for the United Negro College fund in the Pacific Northwest, I want to thank the Tacoma community and the members of the "Lou Rawls Parade of Stars" committee for making UNCF's 40th anniversary campaign a smashing success.

At this time, I would like to publicly acknowledge and thank all of the individuals members of the "Parade of Stars" committee, who worked long and hard to make 1984 a success we can all share and be proud of.

Hats of to: Audrey Russell, General Chairman, Tacoma/Pierce County; Lola Bailey; Bennie Cochran;l Leonard & Ruby Harris; Mr. & Mrs. Levaughn Jenkins; and Dorothy Ward.

Also, I would like to give special thanks to a host of others who supported our Tacoma drive, including: Shari Suphin, "Rock" Thomas of Push Excel; the Black Officers Club; the Caballeros club; Mr. Stubb's; New Jerusalem Church Of God In Christ; St. John's Baptist church; The Shiloh Baptist Church; True Vine Community Church; KPMA, The Tacoma Facts; Tacoma Urban League; and Weyerhaeuser Corporation.

Russia

Gorbachev becomes the youngest leader of the Soviets since the time of Joseph Stalin. It is the beginning of a new era in Russia political collective rule. There have been three Russia leaders in the past 28 months.

The Bible that old men are for counsel, young men for war. You may look for a more aggressive and fighting spirit from the young leaders that will surely emerge under the new premier Gorbachev.

White House officials said that President Reagan was extending a "personal invitation" to Mitchell S. Gorbachev,

HAVE YOU BELIEVE OUR REPORT?

SERIES #47

ISAIAH 53: 1&2

Who hath believed our report? and to whom is the arm of the Lord revealed?

For he shall grow up before him as a root out of dry ground.

He hath no form nor comiliness: and when we shall see him, there is no beauty that we should desire him.

JEREMIAH 9: 1- 16

Oh that my head were waters, and mine eyes a fountain of tears, that I might weep day and night for the slain of the daughter of my people!

Oh that I had in the wilderness a lodging place wayfaring men; that I might leave my people, and go from them! for they be all adulterers, an assembly of treacherous men.

And they bend their tongues like their bow for lies: but they are not valiant for the truth upon the earth; for they proceed from evil to evil, and they know not me, saith the Lord.

Take ye heed every one of his neighbour, and trust ye not in any brother: for every brother wil utterly supplant, and every neighbour will walk with slanders.

And they will deceive every one his neighbour, and will not speak the truth: they have taught their tongue to speak lies, and weary themselves to commit iniquity.

Thine habitation is in the midst of deceit; through deceit they refuse to know me, saith the Lord.

Therefore thus saith the Lord of hosts, Behold, I will melt them, and try them; for how shall I do for the daughter of my people?

Their tongue is as an arrow shot out; it speaketh deceit: one speaketh peaceably to his neighbour with his mouth, but in heart he layeth his wait.

Shall I not visit them for these things? saith the Lord: shall not my soul be avenged on such a nation as this?

For the mountains will I take up a weeping and wailing, and for the habitations of the wilderness a lamentation, because they are burned up, so that none can pass through them; neither can men hear the voice of the cattle; both the fowl of the heavens and the beast are fled; they are gone.

And I will make Jerusalem heaps, and a den of dragons; and I will make the cities of Judah desclate, without an inhabitant.

Who is the wise man, that may understand this? and who is he to whom the mouth of the Lord hath spoken, that he may declare it, for what the land perisheth and is burned up like a wilderness, that none passeth through?

And the Lord saith, Because they have forsaken my law which I set befroe them, and have not obeyed my voice, neither walked therein;

But have walked after the imagination of their own heart, and after Baalim, which their fathers taught them:

Therefore thus saith the Lord of hosts, the God of Israel; Behold, I will feed them, even this people, with owrmwood, and give them water gall to drink.

I will scatter them also among the heathen, whom neither they not their fathers have known: and I will send a sword after them, till I have consumed them.

MALACHI 3: 1- 12

Behold, I will send my messenger, and he shall prepare the way before me: and the Lord, whom ye seek, shall suddenly come to his temple, even the messenger of the covenant whom ye delight in: behold, he shall come, saith the Lord of hosts.

But who may abide the day of his coming? and who shall stand when he appeareth? for he is like a refiner's fire, and like fullers' sope:

And he shall sit as a refiner and purifier of silver: and he shall purify the sons of Levi, and purge them as gold and silver, that they may offer unto the Lord an offering in righteousness.

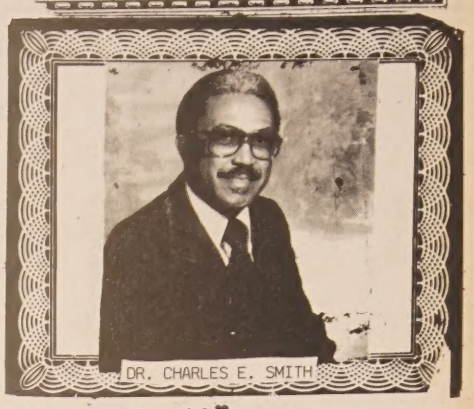
"The Doctors Prescription



"Paid In Full"

Dr. Howard Kelly was a renowned physician and surgeon, and, withal, a devout practicing Chrisitan. During the summer holidays when in medical school, Dr. Kelly sold books to help with expenses. Becoming thirsty, he stopped one day at a farmhouse for a glass of water. A girl came to the door. When he asked for a glass of water, she sweetly said, "I will give you a glass ofmilk if you wish!" He drank the cool, refreshing milk hastily.

The years passed. Dr. Kelly graduated from medical school and became the chief surgeon in the John Jopkins Hospital. One day a seriously ill patient was admitted to the great hospital. She was given special care and placed in a private room with a private nurse. The skilled chief surgeon spared no effort to make the patient well.

After undergoing surgery, she convalesced rapidly. One day she was told by the head nurse, "Tommorrow you will go home!" Her joy was somewhat lessened by the thought of the large bill she must owe the hospital and surgeon. When she asked for it, the nurse brought the itemized bill. With a heavy heart, the patient began to read the different items from the top downward. She sighed But as her eyes lowered, she saw the following notation at the bottom of the large bill:

Paid in full with one glass of milk!

It was signed: Howard A. Kelly, M.D.

"Be not forgetful to entertain strangers: for thereby some have entertained angels unawares."

MATTHEW 25: 40

PSALM 7

O Lord my God, in thee do I put my trust: save me from all them that persecute me, and deliver me:

Lest he tear my soul like a lion, rending it in pieces, while there is none to deliver.

O Lord my God, if I have done this; if there be iniquity in my hands;

If I have rewarded evil unto him that was at peace with me; (yea I have delivered him that without cause is mine enemy:)

Let the enemy persecute my soul, and take it: yea, let him trend down my life upon the earth, and lay mine honour in the dust. Selah.

Arise, O Lord, in thin anger, lift up thyself because of the rage of mine enemies: and awake for me to the judgement that thou hast commanded.

So shall the congregation of the people compass thee about: for their sakes therefore return thou on high.

The Lord shall judge the people: judge me, O Lord, according to my righteousness, and according to mine integrity that is in me.

Oh let the wickedness of the wicked come to an end; but establish the just; for the righteous God trieth the hearts and reins.

We welcome news of your church and civic events.

Quadafi Needs Vitamin B Complex

Anybody Black in America with any sense at all should know by now that Libya's Colonel Mummar Quadhafi knows as much about African-Americans as he does about pulling off successful assassinations in Egypt

In case you disagree with that statement, you must have missed his braying via satellite at Minister Louis Farrakhan's Nation Of Islam meeting in Chicago on Feb. 24th. In self-serving white-hot rhetoric, he reminded me of the White liberals who exploit the Black community as expendable ground troops for the mass demonstrations they lead--in the name of the Black struggle.

Quadhafi wants the 30 million African-Americans to "struggle to create a sovereign state" and the 403,000 serving in the armed forces to leave their posts and form an all-Black army to destroy America and form an independent state.

And although he encouraged sedition, in his halting English, he kept a straight face. "You have the force, and have the soldiers...We are ready to give you arms because your cause is just."

We also have gobs of common sense; more, I suspect, than the Libyan dictator suspects.

First of all, what would the other 200 million Americans, mostly White, who are the best-armed civilians in the world, do while we destroyed them? Not to speak of the fact that the organized institutional force in this society is in their hands.

I suppose the desert dictator thought he soothed us by pointing out his obvious African features or when he said, "We are with you. We will fight together shoulder by shoulder... The final victory will be soon. This country must be destroyed." One wonders if he's been out in the sun too long.

Perhaps, in between assassinations, it would be helpful for his revolutionary vision if he read a little American history.

He would discover that the first blood shed in the American Revolutionary War was that of an African, Crispus Attucks. Yes, we have suffered discrimination and prejudice, but they have become the victims to our moral struggle. As will racism.

All of that may be a little too abstract for a man who deals with dissent with his squads, but when we say 'struggle," we mean the freedom to enjoy, not to destroy.

Pointing to his obviously curly hair, Quadhafi tried to sell his snake oil by deception. He would be considered Black, he said, in the U.S. by Whites "because my hair is curly like yours. It means we are all Blacks in the struggle." We have an abundance of African-Americans with dark skins and loads of curly hair who are mentally as White as one can get. So curly hair does not qualify Quadhafi or certify his thinking.

Speaking of his thinking. I read a study that had empirically demonstrated that the Vitamin "B" complex, when taken as a food supplement, can stop the symtoms of a psychosis--schizophrenia being among them.

These vitamins re-introduce the mental processes to the true realities of life--not those imagined.

Colonel Quadhafi could use a good dose of American history supplemented by the Vitamin "B" Complex.

Mixed Feelings About Bill Cosby Show.

A few mornings ago, I watched Bryant Gumbel interview Bill Cosby on the Today Show.

The occasion was the rise of The Cosby Show to the number one rated television show in the nation in terms of viewing audience. The producer, NBC, long known for producing top rated quality programs that seldom draw large audiences, quite naturally was justifiably proud of the achievement and was rolling out the red carpet for cosby.

In the interview, It was evident that Gumbel and Cosby felt good about each other -- two Black men sitting on top in the highly competitive white world of television news and entertainment. They felt good. Why, then, did I have mixed feelings about the interview and the show that spawned it? I admit that, in a lot of ways, The cosby Show is an entirely wholesome entertainment vehicle. It is free of the buffoonery of the Jeffersons; possesses little of the lack of realism of Benson; is not burdened by the anti-Black family implications of Different Strokes; and is unaffected by the mammyisms inherent in Gimme a Break. Then why am I not an unabashed fan of the show?

A friend of mine insists that the show does not "represent" Black people. While I agree in part, I realize that one cannot expect American Black-oriented television shows to represent Black people when White shows do not represent white people. The cosby Show comes as close to being representative of American Blacks as Dallas does in reflecting the thoughts and actions of average American whites.

In fact, I suppose somewhere in real life there is a Black male doctor married to a Black female lawyer and they live with their four or five children in a tension-filled yet somehow relaxed environment, free from things like money worries and a shortage of love. Additionally, due to the natural mannerisms and skilled acting of the cast, the show has a decidely Black flavor. Then why am I not applauding with both hands? Even as I write this column, I am certain in the minds of too many Americans both Black and white that all Black folks can make it in this society if only they tried. As a consequence, those who harbor this feeling are of the mindset that Blacks who fail to make it are not worthy of sympathy, nor deserving of support.

So even as I commend Bryant Gumbel and Bill Cosby, I realize that their having made it is, at best, symbolic of token Black entry into the status quo. Their status is, by no stretch of the imagination, reflective of a geniune opening of the doors of opportunity to the vast mass of Blacks.

We must constantly keep on pushing to close the gap between the haves and have-nots. When this is accomplished, programs like The cosby Show can be watched with enjoyment and without guilt, free of the nagging feeling that Black and poor people are being had...

To Be Equal

Strengthen The Public School System.

School vouchers and tuition tax credits are being promoted as alternatives to the public shool system for low-income families and minorities ill-served by many urban school districts.

But to go that path is to reject a more viable alternative -- making the public schools work better for the children in our inner cities and rural poverty areas.

That's a lot harder to do, but it is a necessity since the overwhelming majority of blacks attend public schools and will do so in the future.

Anything that weakens the system of public education weakens black prospects and weakens American pluralism. Tuition tax credits would undermine the system of public education upon which black people, like minorities before them depend.

A major claim for tuition tax credits is that they would allow more black people to send their children to private schools. That's arguable.

Most black families could not afford to do so even with tax credits. The typical black family earns less than the government's estimate of a no-frills, lower living standard budget. Half of all black children are in one-parent households.

There is no way those families could find room in their budgets to afford the costs of most private schools. Tuition tax credits would not address the problem of access. Their prime effect would be to help whites afford segregation academies and encourage white flight from public schools. Tax credits would also encourage the skimming process whereby some of the better students would shift to private schools, leaving the public ones with higher percentages of problem pupils and without the public support needed to educate those children.

Fairness is an issue here as well. How can we justify federal tax subsidies, the vast majority of which would go to the affluent, at a time of disastrous federal deficits and declining federal support for public education?

A tax credit that gives parents of children in private schools a bigger subsidy than federal per-pupil payments to public school systems is indefensible from any standpoint.

It is especially unfair since federal aid to schools with large numbers of disadvantaged children have been cut drastically. These compensatory education programs have been credited with the recent rise of black performance on standardized tests, and amount to an important investment in our nations's future.

Tuition tax credits would also be a powerful symbolic declaration of no-confidence in the system of public education that would severly weaken one of the few American institutions that bind us together.

They would favor private advantage over public gain, encouraging the selfishness and lack of caring that already is a serious national flaw.

Nor would such credits solve any perceived problem. If public education isn't as good as it should be the problem won't be solved by making private school more attractive but by making public schools better.

The real issue in education should be to ensure that the children of the poor get quality education that prepares them for the demanding world in which they must function as independent, responsible citizens.

Tuition tax credits are a diversion that will not further that goal.

Philip Morris Cited For Outstanding Support" For Minority Business Development.

FOR OUTSTANDING CORPORATE SUPPORT -- William O'Connor, right, Vice President, Administration and Human Resources, Philip Morris Incorporated, accepted an award in New York City recently for his company's "outstanding corporate support of minority businesses" from John F. Robinson, President of the National Minority Business Council. Founded in 1972, the Council has pioneered in assisting thousands of minority firms in marketing their goods and services to both government and business buyers. Accepting the award at the Council's award luncheon at the Roosevelt hotel, O'Connor said that "at Philip Morris, we have found that minority-owned businesses are an invaluable resource."

NATIONAL MINORITY BUSINESS COUNCIL SAYS COMPANY A LEADER IN PURCHASES FROM MINORITY ENTREPRENEURS

The National Minority Business Councili (NMBC) named Philip Morris Incorporated recently as one of three major business organizations that have provided "outstanding corporate support" for minority business firms.

John F. Robinson, the NMBC president, said "Philip Morris has been ahead of the game for a very long time and we are proud to recognize their efforts as a company that should be emulated," during the Council's Annual Corporate/Minority Awards Luncheon at the Roosevelt Hotel.

Noting that the American economy "has a marvelous tradition of small merchants and craftsmen whose energies and talents build great enterprises," O'Connor said that an important sign of a revival of the "entrepreneurial spirit" has been seen in the fact that "new business people are competing for contracts to supply corporate America with everything from mops to microprocessors."

He said "Philip Morris welcomed the new competitive spirit and that "we have found that minority-owned businesses are an invaluable resource."

The Philip Morris executive said the long corporate commitment to minority businesses "goes hand in hand with partnerships we have formed in the field of education, the arts, leadership training groups and minority banks. We support these activities enthusiastically because we know strong minority
